MURDERS IN LOUISIANA.

Three of the worst murders, or assassinations ever committed in Louisiana are reported from Tangipahoa parish, near Tickfaw, the victims being J. O. Breeland his wife and Mrs. Joseph Everett a widow of only nineteen years, whose husband was killed but three days ago at Zion Hill Church in the presence of his wife and a number of others.

As soon as Mrs. Breeland, the mother of Mrs. Everett, heard that her daughter was left a widow under such circumstances she and her husband went to Livingston parish and immediately after the funeral of young Everett, started for their home, a farm near Natchitoches, in Tangipahoa parish, with Mrs. Everett and her baby, a child of three months. As they were driving near Tickfaw the party was fired upon from ambush and Breeland fell mortally wounded.

The assassins proved to be Garfield Kinchen and Avery Bunt, brother and nephew of the men who had killed Joseph Everett. The women pleaded for the life of the baby, and the latter was spared and placed by one of the murderers by the roadside with Breeland's coat wrapped around it. The two women were deliberately killed.

Mrs. Breeland was shot through the back and Mrs. Everett's brains were blown out by a pistol placed to her temple.

A party going to a dance subsequently passed the spot and found the baby crying by the roadside, the horse cropping the grass, with the two murdered women half seated, half lying, in the buggy and Breeland lying in the road ten feet away.

He lived long enough to tell the story of the murders, being conscious to the last.

Blunt was arrested by the authorities at once, but Kinchen has not yet been captured.

The murders are attributed to prevent presentation for the Everett killing, coupled with hatred of Mrs. Breeland, who was intensely disliked by the families of the murderers.

CARDINAL OPPOSES AMENDMENT.

Cardinal James Gibbons, head of the Catholic Church and hierarchy in this country, has taken a firm stand in opposition to the Straus amendment, which will be submitted to the voters of Maryland at the election next November. Unjust and impolitic the cardinal called the measure, and expressed his conviction that it would stir up dissension in the democratic political organization that stands behind it. The cardinal says: "I have no hesitation in saying that I believe the amendment to be both unjust and impolitic. Unjust because it is designed to deprive a certain class of our fellowmen of the rights duly conferred upon them by the highest law of the land; impolitic, because, in my opinion, it must ultimately injure the political organization which favors it, by stirring up bad blood and creating dissension within the ranks of that party. I infer that the measure is at least partially intended as a punishment to the colored voters for their continued adherence to the republican party. If this be an evil, the way to cure it would be to offer inducements of a legitimate character to the colored voters to transfer their allegiance, in whole or in part, to the party now in power in the state. Fair treatment will accomplish this result. An attempt to punish them will have the opposite effect."

ACCUSED BY DAUGHTER.

Charging her own mother, Mrs. Eva Gordon, aged fifty, and undivorced, with eloping from Leconte, N. H., with her divorced husband, Fred Sargent, thirty, Mrs. Rose Gordon Sargent, twenty-six, caused the arrest of the alleged "elopers" in Norfolk on Saturday upon the charge of living as man and wife. The arrest was in order to secure the custody of her three-year-old boy, Clarence Merrill Sargent, who, the mother charged, had been stolen away from her by the father and grandmother after the court gave it to her in divorce proceedings. The young woman, at the trial before Judge Simmons, said that she found her mother and divorced husband together Friday night, and police detectives confirmed this. She said her mother had left an undivorced husband, her father, in Leconte. The part of the wife was taken by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children of Norfolk, and the child is now in their custody. They were going to turn it over to the mother to carry back to New Hampshire but counsel for the arrested man and woman asked for a continuance until next Wednesday. This was granted. The alleged elopers went to jail in default of bond. Sargent had gone in business in Norfolk.

JOAN OF ARC BEATIFIED.

Many Americans were present at the ceremony in the hall of the consistory at Rome yesterday at which Pope Pius read the decree approving the solemn beatification of Joan of Arc. The pope was surrounded by the lay and ecclesiastical court, which included Archbishop Ireland, of St. Paul's, and Bishops Richard Scannell, of Omaha, and E. P. Allen, of Mobile. In his address the pope said that he was never so satisfied as when, through the help of God, he was able to raise to the altar those who, leaving on earth the perfume of their virtues, show us the way to the assistance of the Almighty, the miracles of heaven. The pontiff also took occasion to commend the present condition of society, which, he said, is afflicted by unbelief.
